The sculptor Stefanie Dörr caringly designs sex toys for women in her Berlin based factory Playstixx

Aesthetically appealing, ergonomically shaped and at the same time harmless Art-Erotic-Toys for women have been in production since 1996 from the Berlin based manufacturer Playstixx. This spring Stefanie Dörr and her team will once again present vibrators that will more than fulfil the expectations of her regular customers.

They invite you to dream, to seduce and be seduced: toys from Stefanie Dörrs Playstixx factory are all lovingly designed pieces of art. But not only that, because the quality and functionality are also looked upon by the sculptor as being a central attribute of her products. This is why they are made of 100 percent high quality, anti-allergic premium silicone, which also has the added advantage of being without fragrance. As well as this, the vibrations from the motor are stageless from soft to powerful thanks to the control dial, which means it can cater to all tastes. These advantages are also included in the three new creations of the Berlin based company.

"Lipstick" will be a hit with customers with its two new variations. This straight vibrator in lilac pink was awarded to "Very Good" label twice in 2007 and 2009 by the German Ökotest, and the new models are equal in comparison to the award winners. The round 17.5 centimetre long shaft has a diameter of 3.5 centimetres and tapers to a smooth rounded tip, which has a different colour to the rest. The "Gold and Feather" design has a real red feather worked into the top end. This offers an excellent contrast to the golden shimmering and fickle coloured body of the vibrator, which will fulfil the erotic dreams of the user. But no matter where these dreams may take you, the purist design will always snuggle into the outer and inner shape of the vagina.

For those who like strong colours, the "Lipstick" also offers the "Power of Love" variation. This shines in a powerful shade of red, with three lilac and pink coloured hearts that seem to rise from the inner depths.

The next two models offer a plastic outer shell. The vibrator "Shelly" reminds one of a whirlpool or a mussel. A bulge curves its way up from the base along the 16 centimetre long toy and ends in a spiral at the tip. Because of this delicate tip, "Shelly", with a diameter of 3.5 centimetre, is still recommendable to women with vaginismus. As the name and design suggests, the mother-of-pearl shimmering colours of aubergine, black and pink, remind one of a casual muscle find whilst strolling on the beach. "Leila" is also available in a number of appealing colours, such as aubergine, black, lavender and raspberry. She is "the meadow" in Finland and in the Arabic countries the name means "the dark night". For Stefanie Dörr she symbolises devotion, especially to ones self. The tip looks a little like a snails shell and is shaped so that it can stimulate the G-spot. But the mostly drop-shaped body of the adult toy is special: with its 16.5 centimetre it is so flexible that it can stimulate the clitoris at the same time as reaching the G-spot. You
